In radio, an antenna is the interface between radio waves propagating through space and electric currents moving in metal conductors, used with a transmitter or receiver. In transmission, a radio transmitter supplies an electric current to the antenna's terminals, and the antenna radiates the energy from the current as electromagnetic waves (radio waves).

The J-pole antenna, more properly known as the J antenna, was first invented by Hans Beggerow in 1909 for use in Zeppelin airships. Trailing behind the airship, it consisted of a single element, one half wavelength long radiator with a quarter wave parallel feedline tuning stub.

Fundamentals of Engineering Electronics, William Dow, 1937, 617 pages - Courtesy of an anonymous donor. A very unassuming title for a 617-page engineering book! The first part of the book has a rather in-depth treatment of vacuum tube operation, and details of amplifier circuit design.

I use an old favorite multiband antenna on forty and eighty meters - the center-fed inverted V dipole, fed with true open wire feedline -sometimes known as "tuned feeders". Nothing new about this, except it seems to have been forgotten by many. One rule-of-thumb with antennas is that one which is optimized for one band, is superior to a multiband antenna, all other things being equal.
