Modern portfolio theory (MPT), or mean-variance analysis, is a mathematical framework for assembling a portfolio of assets such that the expected return is maximized for a given level of risk. It is a formalization and extension of diversification in investing, the idea that owning different kinds of financial assets is less risky than owning only one type.

Enhancing Returns By Rebalancing Amongst Equities (Or Other Similar-Return Asset Classes). While rebalancing between high- and low-return asset classes (e.g., stocks and bonds) becomes a process that systematically sells higher-returning investments to buy those with lower returns (and therefore enhances risk management but generally reduces returns), in the case of rebalancing between ...
