Cybernetics is a transdisciplinary approach for exploring regulatory systems—their structures, constraints, and possibilities. Norbert Wiener defined cybernetics in 1948 as "the scientific study of control and communication in the animal and the machine." In the 21st century, the term is often used in a rather loose way to imply "control of any system using technology." In other words, it is ...

Systems theory is the interdisciplinary study of systems. A system is a cohesive conglomeration of interrelated and interdependent parts that is either natural or man-made. Every system is delineated by its spatial and temporal boundaries, surrounded and influenced by its environment, described by its structure and purpose or nature and expressed in its functioning.

In 1968, West Churchman wrote, "there is a good deal of turmoil about the manner in which our society is run. the citizen has begun to suspect that the people who make major decisions that affect our lives don't know what they are doing." [1] Churchman was writing at a time of growing concern about war, civil rights, and the environment.
